

PRISONER OF FEZ IS IN ST. LOUIS

Gardener Brown, Now of the British Service, Could Not Leave Palace Grounds for Seven Months.

SULTAN HIS DAILY COMPANION

With Insurrectionists Occupying Every Avenue, Little Party of Europeans Finally Escaped.

Making gardens for the Sultan of Morocco proved to be hazardous business for T. W. Brown of London, England, who is in charge of the preparation of the grounds around the British building at the World's Fair.

Although gardening is not generally regarded as an adventurous occupation, Mr. Brown has led an eventful career, his last episode, prior to his arrival in St. Louis, being a seven months' imprisonment in the gardens of the Sultan, with the Sultan himself for a companion.

Twenty months ago Mr. Brown was engaged as chief gardener to the Sultan for the special purpose of laying out new palace grounds at Fez and also beautiful grounds around the quarters of the Sultan's harem.

"I was busy with the work on the gardens when the insurrection in Morocco broke out," said Mr. Brown to the Post-Dispatch, "and all the roads leading from Fez were occupied. For seven months five other Europeans and myself were prisoners on the palace grounds, not daring to leave them except with a heavy guard of soldiers."

"The Sultan was a prisoner with us. The insurrectionists occupied every avenue of escape, and their leader almost daily sent word to the Sultan that he was about to bombard the palace—he never did, however—with heavy artillery."

"We finally escaped last May after a six days' horseback ride through a hostile country where we had to be ready for a fight at any minute. Before the escape we were on short rations several times and threatened with death."

"The Europeans in our little party included the aide-de-camp to the Sultan, several military instructors, an electrician and myself. All other European and American residents of Fez had left the city before we were able to escape."

"When we did attempt to leave we were confronted with the impossibility of securing conveyances and finally started for Tangiers on horseback. Three times we were driven back into Fez before we gave up and decided that we would have to stay."

"The people in Fez were friendly to the Sultan and so supposedly to us who were in the Sultan's service, but in fact it was dangerous for Christians to go about Fez. Consequently we never left the palace grounds without a heavy guard of soldiers."

"The insurrectionists who surrounded the city were a large army and well armed with modern guns. How they got them we don't know."

"I was in Fez almost six months. Before I left I completed the inner gardens of the Sultan's grounds, but the outer gardens were unfinished when I came away."

Will Lay Out the ### British Gardens.

Mr. Brown reached St. Louis last week and will remain until the Fair. He studied gardening at the Kew gardens near London and also at the Sorbonne in Paris. Before going to Morocco he was in the service of the British government on the Gold Coast of Africa, laying out buildings there. Prior to that he was attached to the Sunderland gardens in North England.

"The grounds around the British building at the World's Fair will be in the formal style of the Kew gardens," said Mr. Brown. "The beds will be square. Straight lines will prevail. Walks and flower beds will be bordered by low hedges. Fountains, ponds for water lilies, small statuary, covered alleys and bowling green will be features of the grounds."

CAN YOU HELP A WIFE FIND THIS MISSING MAN?

OLIVER ANDERSON
Disappearance of Secretary of Large Firm Remains a Mystery to Family and Employers.

No word has been received as to the whereabouts of Oliver Anderson, secretary and treasurer of the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Dry Goods Co., who has been missing from his place of business and his home, 435 Westminister place, since last Thursday morning, as told exclusively in Monday's Post-Dispatch.

It has been suggested that he is the victim of nervous collapse, due to overwork, but this theory is not accepted by Mrs. Anderson, who says he never suffered a spell of sickness or complained of poor health.

Since his 18th year, Mr. Anderson, who is now 38 years old, has been an employee of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney, rising from office boy to confidential employee.

He was a particular favorite of R. M. Scruggs, the senior member of the firm. Information was received that he had gone to Chicago, but efforts by Mr. Bergfeld, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Anderson, and Mr. Eke Meyer, superintendent of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney, failed to locate him there. The search was pursued in Milwaukee Sunday, but proved equally futile.

Mrs. Bergfeld stated to the Post-Dispatch Tuesday morning that Mrs. Anderson felt confident her husband would appear very soon, and the fact that no fate full news had reached her indicated that he has not met with any accident or been the victim of foul play.

"Mr. Anderson was a good husband, an ideal father and a man of the most extraordinary talents, Canterbury bells and other flowers popular in Elizabethan day will be grown in the beds.

"A sunken garden will be constructed east of the building, about four feet below the surface. This will contain many of the features."

The garden will be about 400 feet square, the British building, modeled after the orangery of Kensington palace, standing in the midst.

TOTS IN JAIL WITH FATHER

Two Young Children Go to Prison With Him, Having No Other Place to Stay.

MEXICO, Mo., Sept. 28.—Gottlieb Winger, a two children, aged 5 and 6 years, respectively are in jail with him because they have no other place to go during his confinement.

Winger was sent to jail because he could not give a $500 bond as surety against his not disturbing the peace of his neighbor, Valentine Erdel.

Arrangements were made to have a neighbor attend to Winger's stock and farm during the term of his sentence, which is 30 days.

The county authorities will send the children to an orphan asylum.

SEEKING MRS. ANNA ZAPPERT.

California Appeals to St. Louisians for News of His Mother.

Louis Zappert of Coronado Beach, Cal., has written a letter requesting the readers of the Post-Dispatch to assist him in securing information of his mother, Mrs. Anna Zappert.

The last time he heard from her she was in Vienna, Austria but at that time expressed her intention of returning to St. Louis, where she formerly resided.

Mrs. Zappert's address is the Hotel Del Coronado.

Not a Plunger.

Meyer, Shalomon, consequently lost his head over the night race.

Give us that suit!

THE MISSING MAN.

Age, 38 years.

Height, 5 feet 8 inches.

Build, slim and erect.

Brown hair, blue eyes.

Light complexion.

Regular features.

Clean shaven.

Usually wears dark clothes.

Dresses plainly, but neatly.

piary habits," said Mrs. Bergfeld.

"He was punctual in his business affairs, earned a good salary and had occasion for no worry."

"He did not know what sickness was, and he was as cheerful on the way he disappeared as he had ever been."

"We cannot account for his actions at all. It is possible he may have become from some unknown cause to us, mentally unbalanced."

"That is the only reason we can imagine for his departure."

Mr. Anderson has two children, one 6 years old, the other aged 18 months.

His father, Crawford, vice-president of the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Co., said that lookkeepers have gone over Mr. Anderson's books, and have found everything in order.

Mr. Anderson kissed his wife and children Tuesday morning and proceeded to his office, where he arrived a few minutes before 9 o'clock.

Soon afterwards he got up from his desk, but on his overcoat, and remarking to an attache of the arm that he would return in a few minutes, left the store and did not return.

FRENCHABBE IS A

GUEST OF C. B. C.

Four Hundred Students Greet Distinguished Churchman With the College Yell.

Four hundred Christian Brothers' College students welcomed and applauded Abbe Klein of the Catholic University of Paris with their college yell Tuesday morning.

Abbe Klein, who is in America as he explained, because he has become discouraged at the religious persecution that is a part of French politics, and who hopes to help his country to a solution of the problem of religious tolerance, was accompanied to the Cote Brulante College by Archbishop Glennon. He was met at the entrance by Brother Justin and three other members of the faculty.

The boys and young men were lined up in the hall to receive the visitor, and gave him a hearty cheer. Martin Down, a student, made a formal address of welcome.

Archbishop Glennon, in a short talk, told of the purpose of the abbe's visit, and when he stated that the abbe was an admirer of American freedom, the guest led applause in which the boys heartily joined.

Abbe Klein made a short talk in which he congratulated the boys upon being American students, and said many pleasant things about this country and its people. He also declared that the French of the present generation are better and more intelligent and intelligent students than they were in previous generations.

Anne Klein will spend all of Tuesday afternoon, a guest of the C. B. C. College. He expects to leave either Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

How It Happened.

Question: What in the world ever induced you to propose to Miss Wadsworth?

Answer: Why—she is so nice.

CHICAGO PARADE TO BE WITHOUT MUSIC

Union Musicians Decline to Play for Centennial Because Marine Band Is Invited.

CITY MAKES NO CONCESSIONS

Only One Event Will Be Enlivened by a Band and That Will Close the Celebration.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The marchers in the big centennial parade tonight will be compelled to tramp over the route without a musical note to cheer them.

The Musicians' Union has positively refused to take part in the parade or to have anything whatever to do with the centennial celebration if the Marine Band of Washington is to play at the massing in the Auditorium on Thursday night, which is to be the final act of the celebration.

The union declares that its constitution forbids its members to have anything to do with an event in which enlisted men in the government service take part.

The union, therefore, demanded that the invitation to the Marine Band be withdrawn or the union musicians would decline to furnish music for the parade for the banquet of the mayors Wednesday night for any other part of the centennial celebration.

The committee of arrangements for the parade informed the union last night that the invitation to the Marine Band should stand, and that the union musicians be taken by the local musicians.

The union at once decided that it could not concede the position it had taken and it so informed the committee.

It was decided by the committee to go ahead with their plans just as though there were no such thing as music. The playing of the band Tuesday night will, therefore, be the only music of the celebration.

It was not the intention of the committee to use the Marine Band for anything but for the marching on that evening.

Public Opinion

Against Bandmen.

Public opinion is against the union bandmen. The Marine Band will not arrive in Chicago until Thursday. Before that time the parade will have been held. Chicago's history. Managers of the public festival say that the parade and concert are two different functions and should not be considered as one by the union leaders.

SAYS DAUGHTER IS NOT LAWFUL WIFE

Millionaire Spreckles, Through Attorneys, Makes Remarkable Defense to Child's Suit.

HONOLULU, Sept. 28.—The attorneys for

Claus Spreckles assert that the marriage of Mrs. Thomas Watson (daughter of Mr. Spreckles) to Mr. Watson is void.

Mrs. Watson, now of England, is suing her father for the recovery of a block of Honolulu property valued at $400,000, which she conveyed to him soon after her marriage in 1904.

The marriage led to an estrangement between daughter and parents, and Mrs. Watson returned the property, which had previously been presented to her by her father.

The present suit is based on the fact that Mrs. Watson's deed of conveyance did not bear her husband's signature.

Mr. Spreckles' attorneys allege that Mr. Watson had been previously married in Utah in 1878, was illegal, and that consequently, his second marriage was void.

AVOID PROTESTANTS, PALMA'S WARNING

Cuban President Says His Country Is Catholic and Should Remain in That Faith.

HAVANA, Sept. 28.—President Palma, in an interview at Jiguani, province of Santiago, said that as the state was doing its duty in supplying schools, the real authorities apparently did not trouble themselves to see that religious influences reached to out-of-the-way places.

Neither in Balneario Jiguani, nor in all the municipal district is there a church. Religious marriage has been almost entirely abolished, owing to the lack of priests and churches. It was not to be wondered at that religious indifference prevailed in these places.

The Catholic church in Cuba, which has considerable resources, should not neglect this matter. Senor Palma added that he had his own religion, but Cuba is a Catholic country and should take steps to avoid the advent of Protestants.

Senor Yero, secretary of justice, has returned to Havana. He will depart for New York on Saturday. He says the government cannot recognize the plea of the 44 outlaws recently captured, that they only meant to make a peaceful demonstration. The fact that they were armed disposes of this plea.

President Palma has promised to pay the army with government bonds, negotiable certificates or other means if the attempt to float the $35,000,000 loan fails. There is considerable opposition to the special taxes to meet the expenses of the loan.

GALLANT SOLDIER OF BOER WAR WINS BRIDE FROM WHOM FATE ONCE SEVERED HIM

After a courtship of six years, interrupted by the loss of a great fortune in financial crashes and the battles of the Boer war, Dr. Isabeau Edo de Constant von Poorten of Germany and South Dakota has taken as his bride Miss Bertha Lemboffer of Trier, Germany. They were married Monday evening by Justice Robert Carroll.

They first met at a military ball in Trier. Then Von Poorten was secretary to a lawyer. ## MAPLEWOOD GIRLS HAVE DISAPPEARED

Josephine Dow and Lillian Safford Leave a Note, the Former Saying She Has Gone Forever.

Without warning and evidently in a sudden freak of girlish fancy, Josephine Dow and Lillian Safford, the attractive young daughters of well-known Maplewood people, have disappeared from their homes and no trace of them has been found.

Only a brief farewell note signed by Josephine, who is but 17 years old, has been discovered to throw any light upon the mystery. Placed in a bookcase in the house next to the Dow home on Sarah street near Marshall avenue, where the two girls were sleeping, the letter was seen Sunday forenoon by Mrs. Dow, who had come to awaken them. It read:

"Dear Mother, I have gone beyond your reach. You will never hear from me again, and it will be useless for you to search for me, as it will be a waste of time and money. Josephine."

Inquiry in the neighborhood has failed to reveal anything which shows where the girls have gone.

Lillian Safford is the 16-year-old daughter of W. M. Safford of 2615 Summit avenue. Mr. Safford was formerly in business at Mattoon, Ill. Josephine Dow's father is Charles C. Dow, who was formerly connected with the city law department in St. Louis, and is now in the real estate business in New York City. He and Mrs. Dow have been separated, it is said, for some time.

Mrs. Dow at once wired her husband about the disappearance of the girls. He replied that he knew nothing about the matter. It is expected that he will come to St. Louis without delay to aid in the search.

The girls took nothing but the clothing they wore, and the fact that they left without funds to make their way in the world has caused their families keen anxiety. Both are remarkably pretty. Josephine has black eyes and hair and is large for her age. Lillian is a little blonde, who would be noticed in a crowd because of her good looks.

Several weeks ago Josephine expressed a desire to go to New York, in a light-hearted sort of a way, to which her mother attached no importance.

RISTINE'S RETURN DESIRED.

Railroad Officials Wish Him to Remain With World's Fair.

George W. Ristine of Chicago, who resigned three weeks ago as director of transportation of the World's Fair, is considering requests that he withdraw his resignation, offered as a result of differences between Mr. Ristine and other officials of the Fair.

The resignation has neither been accepted by the Fair management nor withdrawn by Mr. Ristine. Mr. Ristine came to St. Louis with President Felton of the Chicago & Alton and took dinner at the St. Louis Club with President Felton, J. T. Harahan, vice-president of the Illinois Central, John F. Stevens, fourth vice-president of the Rock Island, and W. S. McChesney, Jr., president of the Terminal Railroad Association. Rush D. Miller, assistant to Mr. Ristine in the World's Fair transportation office, has offered his resignation, effective Thursday. He will be freight agent for the Washington at its new Borsdale and World's Fair station at Lindell and De Baliviere avenues.

Lighting Inspectors Removed. Seven lighting supervisors have been removed by Supervisor Thomas B. Carter, as follows: Tyler Sturgeon, William Warrance, Herbert Brown, A. G. Brady, W. Stephens, Thomas Dove and Charles J. Fox. The order will take effect Oct. 1. The following appointments have been made: J. E. Carroll, Richard Foley, John Ruprecht, Joseph Hynes, Edward K. McNamara and John Bronnman, Jr. Other removals will follow. All new men are Democrats.

RUSSIA IS CHANGING POLICY

Sakharoff Will Soon Succeed Kurapatkin as Minister of War, Indicating New Oriental Conditions.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Official advice from St. Petersburg indicate that Gen. Sakharoff, chief of state, will soon succeed Gen. Kurapatkin as minister for war.

The latter shared with M. Witte, the president of the council of ministers and former minister of finance, the disfavor growing out of the Manchurian complications.

The change is considered significant of a modification of the Russian military policy in the far East and along the Russian frontier in Europe, being contemporaneous with a reduction of the military department at Kief, commanding the Austrian frontier.

It was announced from St. Petersburg last night that it was rumored in high military circles there that Gen. Kurapatkin would be appointed governor of the Caucasus and that he was to be replaced as war minister by Gen. Sakharoff, the governor of Finland, Prince Obolenski succeeding to the latter post.

ST. LOUIS PASTOR A YOUNG LOCHINVAR

Presbyterian College President's Daughter Won by Methodist Minister in Four Days.

WEDDING TWO WEEKS HENCE

Tower Grove Clergyman Was Athlete and Orator in His Recent Student Days.

A four days' visit gave time enough for Rev. Ralph Wakefield, pastor of Tower Grove Methodist Episcopal Church to win the heart of Miss Mary Black of Marshall, Mo., daughter of the Rev. Mr. W. H. Black, one of the most prominent Cumberland Presbyterian in the state.

While attending a conference of the St. Louis district of the M. E. Church at Marshall last March, Mr. Wakefield and Miss Black were introduced to each other. He is secretary of the St. Louis M. E. Ministers' Association and she is a member of the same.

By chance he was assigned to the home of Dr. Black, president of Missouri Valley College, the state institution of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Mr. Wakefield and Miss Black are to be married at Marshall, Oct. 12, and after a short journey south, will return to St. Louis and reside at 1404 Old Manchester road, where Mr. Wakefield is now preparing a home.

"I became a guest at Dr. Black's house Tuesday, and Friday evening we were engaged," said Mr. Wakefield. "In fact, I think we understood each other from the first. We obtained her parents' consent Sunday. Yes, it was rather hurried, but when both are in earnest, why should it not be so?"

Miss Black is a favorite in social and church circles at Marshall, and for some time played the organ in the Cumberland Church there. Great surprise followed the announcement that she was engaged to a young clergyman of another denomination.

She is a musician of unusual ability, and was recently offered the chair of music in a western college. She intended to accept and to enter upon a musical career, but Rev. Mr. Wakefield induced her to change her mind.

The minister is a clean-cut athletic man of 27, with a frank manner, and carried off oratorical honors in his college days. He is the son of W. H. Wakefield, a well-known business man. After graduating from the high school here, Young Wakefield took a degree at Baker University, Baldwin, Mo., and a course at Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J.

Mr. Wakefield then came to St. Louis, and has been at Tower Grove Church for a year and a half. When he took charge of the membership was 126; it now is 220.

Rev. Mr. Wakefield and Miss Black are to be married at Marshall, Oct. 12, and after a short journey south, will return to St. Louis and reside at 1404 Old Manchester road, where Mr. Wakefield is now preparing a home.

"I became a guest at Dr. Black's house Tuesday, and Friday evening we were engaged," said Mr. Wakefield. "In fact, I think we understood each other from the first. We obtained her parents' consent Sunday. Yes, it was rather hurried, but when both are in earnest, why should it not be so?"

Miss Black is a favorite in social and church circles at Marshall, and for some time played the organ in the Cumberland Church there. Great surprise followed the announcement that she was engaged to a young clergyman of another denomination.

She is a musician of unusual ability, and was recently offered the chair of music in a western college. She intended to accept and to enter upon a musical career, but Rev. Mr. Wakefield induced her to change her mind.

The minister is a clean-cut athletic man of 27, with a frank manner, and carried off oratorical honors in his college days. He is the son of W. H. Wakefield, a well-known business man. After graduating from the high school here, Young Wakefield took a degree at Baker University, Baldwin, Mo., and a course at Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J.

Mr. Wakefield then came to St. Louis, and has been at Tower Grove Church for a year and a half. When he took charge of the membership was 126; it now is 220.

ERRATIC BROWNS WESTWARD BOUND

After Presenting Two More Games to Boston, McAleer's Men Set Forth to Meet Reds.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 28.—The St. Louis Browns left this morning for Cincinnati, where they play two games with the Reds Wednesday and Thursday, prior to returning to St. Louis for the post-season series with the Cardinals. The local season was cut short a day to accommodate the Browns, the game scheduled for Tuesday being doubled up yesterday.

The Browns were beaten in both games despite the fact that Powell and Sudhoff, the best the Browns have, were in the box for the visitors. Both men pitched as though they wanted Boston to win, and both were heavily pounded.

The first game was a reasonably close one, the final score being 8 to 7. Powell opposed Gibson, and superior batting by the home club won out. Boston made four errors in the field, which added to the Browns' troubles. The final tally, Powell yielded the runs in bunches, three being secured off him in the first, two in the fifth and three in the seventh.

The second game resulted in a 6 to 0 shutout for the visitors. Dineen officiating against Sudhoff. Willie was hit 15 times while Dineen pitched invincibly. Bowcock in this round distinguished himself by making three errors.

WASHINGTON HAS A RECORD SQUAD

Joy Reigns at the University Over
Great Crop of Football Candidates.

Washington University at last sees light in the football world. For perhaps the first time in its history, enough men to make two eleven and then another one with reserve. Thirty-four men have been put out for practice under Coach Boynton and with the opening of the medical department more and heavier candidates for the team are expected.

Yesterday's practice at Leach Park was held in the afternoon and will continue at 2:30 each afternoon. Coach Boynton and Dr. Smith, graduate manager, were beaming over the big turnout of candidates.

He will meet both clubs at St. Louis Wednesday and confer regarding the intercollegiate game to be played at St. Louis. The Pirates are confident that they will be able to win the game.

The Pirates make one stop-over on the way to St. Louis, having an exhibition game scheduled at Buffalo with Stallings' team.

TWELVE EVENTS AT TRIPLE A.
Club Members Will Contest at Field and Track Sports.

Entries for the Triple A athletic meeting at Forest Park, Oct. 3, have closed with a long list. The affair is open only to club members, but some of the best track and field athletes in the city are expected to take part.

Twelve events will be contested, as follows: 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 880-yard run, 120-yard hurdles, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, relay race, obstacle race, three-legged race and a special relay dash.

The last event will be for the R. J. Leacock gold medal. Mr. Leacock has offered a prize of $100 to the winner of the largest number of points in a series of four scratch 440-yard races to be run off before the World's Fair games. Saturday's race will be the first of this series.

It's a "Garland" that's all you need to know about a Stove or Range.

WINTER TRACK AT HOT SPRINGS.
Thirteen Stakes Are Carded for Opening Meeting at New Course.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 28.—Hot Springs will have a race meeting this winter. The track will be located about five miles from the city in one of the prettiest valleys of the state. An electric railway will connect it with the city.

The track is not yet complete, but it will be finished about the middle of December. With other appropriate racing plans, prominent racing men like Judge Sullivan, Capt. Kline, George and Umbrella, Bill McCaughey are heavily interested in the enterprise.

Racing will commence Jan. 15 and will last three months. Thirteen stakes are carded for the meeting with added money to the value of $14,500. The most important of the Will Senator Stone sue the Missouri Health Society for fooling him?

Mr. Roosevelt is finding it difficult to find a tail for his presidential kite; he doesn't want a large tail.

It is perfectly natural for kites to fall when the wind gives out. Financial kites are no exception to the rule.

JUDGE GROSSCUP DECLINES.

Judge Grosscup's announcement that he will not leave the United States circuit bench to become general counsel of the Northern Securities Co. is encouraging.

He says that it would "pay" to go back to the practice of law, but that he has some conscience on the subject and money is not a controlling consideration.

Men are needed on the bench who do not measure success by dollars. The honor is worth something. But unhappily too many judges throw away the honor and take money instead.

Some of the ablest judges on the federal bench have yielded to this temptation, thus weakening the judiciary. Judge Grosscup is said to be not a rich man. The salary promised, reported to be $30,000, is much greater than what he receives as circuit judge. That he declines the offer is a most gratifying evidence of his fitness for his judicial duties.

President Roosevelt has a No. 8 foot and he sometimes puts it in it.

OUR ST. LOUIS FILIPINOS.

The Filipinos who have reached St. Louis are the advance guard of a much larger number still to come. Their object in coming to St. Louis is to advance their own education in American ideas.

As none of them are "Ladrones" or other desperadoes who object violently to un-American ideas, they will be docile enough to learn from St. Louis what American ideas really are.

It would be a triumph for St. Louis to send them every one home, fully educated in the American idea, which is the idea that every man owns himself, and that the people of every country have a right to govern it.

If we can send even a single thousand Filipinos home from St. Louis, completely disabused of the idea that they were sold to us by Spain, and that we are their masters, it would be education worth more than any other we could give them.

It does seem extravagant—a fee of $5 for hair dyeing. But, after all, this is cheaper than many other kinds of folly.

COUNT TOLSTOI AND DR. HARPER.

Although Count Tolstoi characterized President Harper of Chicago University as a "barbarian," the good doctor has proved himself a better Tolstoi than Tolstoi himself.

He says the count is a great and good man and he won't say a word to disparage him.

Besides, Dr. Harper says, even the Turk is not without virtue. What better proof can be asked that Mr. Rockefeller's pedagogical deity is overflowing with good will to all mankind. He is as full of the oil of kindness as Mr. Rockefeller's wells are full of the oil of profit.

Dr. Harper cuts a better figure than Tolstoi in this controversy. Like many other successful modern men, he has learned that it is best to float with the tide and sing the tune of the time. What is a university worth without money, and how far would Tolstoi's ideas go if publishers didn't see money in them?

Harper and Tolstoi are alike in this ultimate dependence upon the materialistic interest of civilization. They differ in that Tolstoi hates this dependence, while Harper loves it and makes it pay. And isn't love better than hate? Tolstoi says so.

Andrew Carnegie will make good his gifts, whatever may happen to stocks.

LOOKING FOR HAPPINESS.

A wise woman writes: "With some, life is one continuous hunt for happiness, which is never found. The wise stay at home in quiet content and happiness comes to them."

Which being interpreted means that the woman who realizes how rich her own soul is and develops its wealth will get happiness never found by the woman who depends upon what is outside of herself—people, circumstances, etc.

The trouble with most women—and most men, too, for that matter—is that they are not self-satisfied. Her self is all she really has, and yet she turns her back upon her self and look to others' selves for content and happiness. But this same woman would resent the charge that she was not "as good as any other woman." If she is, why doesn't she depend upon the good of her self and not go looking for the good away from her own home, in her own soul?

If the woman will cultivate her self until the latest good in it blossoms and bears fruit, she will fill her home with beauty and happiness. Her husband will come to believe there is no other woman like her and her children will swear by her all ways.

What does it profit a man if he owns the entire Adirondack wilderness and isn't allowed to enjoy it?

MR. ROOSEVELT AND THE SHAH.

President Roosevelt's notions of sport are extraordinary. They are so full of common sense and obvious truth that the reader gasps with astonishment when he reads:

"I like to see a man sail, himself, and not hire a man to sail for him."

The idea is not new to quiet people who have watched yacht races at an unimportant distance. They have wondered why the gentleman sportsman did nothing but put up the money. They asked if the men who designed and sailed the boats were not the real sportsmen. Of course they know nothing about it and it was of no consequence what they thought. But now Mr. Roosevelt confesses himself one of them.

prise that, at the court ball given in his honor, the prince, princesses, dukes, duchesses, earls and countesses went on the floor and danced. "Why don't you make your servants dance for you?" he asked, in all good faith.

This is exactly what these sportsmen at long range have done. They hire men to sail their boats and ride their horses. They are not sportsmen, but mere treasurers of sport. They take the Shah's view of the subject, and Mr. Roosevelt has done well to tell the truth about it boldly.

An investigation by the Merchants' Exchange discovers that the Mississippi is navigable for ships drawing 15 feet of water from March 1 to July 1. The investigation was caused by the desire of several German exhibitors to send their exhibits by ship from Hamburg to St. Louis without transfer. It is a pity that the Germans cannot be notified that the great Mississippi is navigable for vessels of moderate tonnage all the year round. One can imagine what an effect such a condition would have on business in St. Louis. If revived river traffic could come with improved railroad terminals the growth of St. Louis business would be tremendous. In this connection several important questions concerning the effect of the terminal plans on river traffic are asked by a correspondent in another column of the Post-Dispatch. Care should be taken in arranging for new terminals to keep abundant passages open to the levee for wagons. Some day the river will be of incalculable benefit to St. Louis.

HYPNOTISM OF ADVERTISING.

Advertising is an art and the successful advertiser practices that art understandingly. But Prof. Walter D. Scott of the Northwestern University would have us believe further that successful advertising is a form of hypnotism and that the successful advertiser manages to hypnotize the public. He says:

"All men are naturally obedient. 'Use the form of direct command' in wording an advertisement."

While admitting that there is some truth in the contention that successful advertising acts, through the power of suggestion, is it not a fact that the advertisement which is most successful is that which is based on common sense? It attracts us because it offers something that we need. It is a legitimate offer of something that will satisfy our desires, rather than an attempt to control our minds and compel us hypnotically to take something or do something contrary to those desires.

The public, very naturally, objects to being hypnotized or cajoled into doubtful bargains or actions. The advertiser who treats the people as being possessed of a normal degree of common sense will be successful. It may be true that direct command is the most effective form of advertising, but it must be backed up by merit, or the people will refuse to obey the command.

The carnival number of the Hamilton, Ont., Evening Times shows that Canadian newspapers are reaching out for all that is up to date in modern journalism. The city of Hamilton claims to be the electrical and manufacturing center of Canada, and the carnival number of the Times contains much interesting matter in proof of the claim. Hamilton is well situated for a center of industry, with its lake shipping, railroads and water power. But the Times' pages indicate that the city's wide-awake citizens have been the chief factor in its growth. It is now the site of some of the largest manufacturing plants in America.

Ex-Senator Vest, who knows as much about newspapers as a man can know who is outside the profession, is pleased with the Pulitzer School of Journalism. He tells the Sunday Post-Dispatch that the school "will have a tremendous influence on the newspapers of the future." During his long public career Mr. Vest learned the power of the press for good and evil, and wants it exercised always for good.

Three street car accidents on the Eads bridge, all of which were prevented from resulting seriously by fortunate circumstances, should be sufficient warning of the unsafe condition of the present tracks. To continue to take risks such as are indicated by this series of accidents is to invite a disaster and to assure conviction of criminal negligence in the event of a disaster.

The elevators at the custom house should be placed nearer together. Whenever one of them is not running (and that is frequently), American citizens ought not to have to walk from Eighth street to Ninth or from Ninth street to Eighth.

JUST A MINUTE WITH THE POST-DISPATCH POET & PHILOSOPHER

A SEPTEMBER SONNET.

Lay by the shoes low-quartered. They are done.
With all of life's frivolity and mirth. They've had their day, and they are done with earth.
And earth with them. They saw a deal of fun.
I warrant you, after the set of sun On summer afternoons. There was no dearth
Of pleasures that expand the heart and girth.
When they were new and had their race to run.
How often did they dally under tables Where inspiration flowed in sparkling streams.
There beauty lingered—beauty, which enables
The duldest spirit to indulge in dreams—
And heartstrings trembled like so many cables.
So thrillingly electric pleasure seems.

Tears vs. Justice.

Justice may be blind, but in St. Louis she is not deaf.
Justice may be "sworn" against tears," as Byron said, but in St. Louis she is not proof against them.
Twice within a week two branches of the local judiciary have been perturbed and their rulings utterly set at naught by the walling of children too young to appreciate the formalities with which they were interfering, but not too young to feel the strength of human ties which these same courts had decreed should be disrupted for the benefit of all concerned.

First, it was little Vivian Campbell and his sister who played havoc with the dignity of Judge Taylor's court by utterly refusing to be transported to Portland, Ore., where they were to be given into the care of their mother. Those youngsters became so fearful and obstreperous that it was found necessary to place them in an orphan's home until such time as their mother could send for them. The court backed down as gracefully as possible, the lawyers retired in confusion and the deputy sheriff was utterly flustered.

Now it is little May Block, aged 7, who has set the court at defiance and upset the ruling of Judge McDonald by weeping, wailing and gnashing her teeth whenever the attempt is made to transport her from her mother's to a plain hippyoke cantankerous in this little miss that the deputy sheriff who has been detailed to make the transfer nearly throws a fit every time he starts in the direction of the house. Many a time has the sight of a weeping woman influenced the verdict of a jury, and the poet has aptly said:

Oh, too convincing, dangerously dear In woman's eye the unanswerable tear. This weapon of her weakness she can wield To save, subdue—at once her spear and shield—but never until recently have the tears of little bits had the effect of blocking the wheels of justice and throwing the judiciary out of joint twice in hand-running.

Was the appointment of an ex-Mormon bishop to a federal job in Idaho by President Roosevelt a delicate tribute to a fellow citizen who is opposed to "racial suicide?"

EDWARD VII AND HOME RULE.

Justin McCarthy in the Independent.

"Of course even this (the land bill) would not of itself constitute a settlement of the whole Irish national question. That settlement, as every reasonable and thinking Englishman must now see, is only to be obtained by the restoration to Ireland of her right to make laws for herself in her own Irish Parliament. The address lately sent to the King by the representative chamber of the Canadian Parliament comes in with most timely effect to drive home this conviction to the mind of the English people. The Canadian address reminds me of the fact that the Canadian nation, which at the opening of the late Queen's reign was in actual rebellion against English rule, and was at the same time torn asunder by internal dissensions between the French Canadians and those whom we may call the British Canadians, has been converted by the magic of home rule into one of the most contented, united, loyal and prosperous divisions of the English imperial system. The concession of home rule to Canada was the work of a man of genius, the late Lord Durham, who was sent out by England with something like dictatorial powers for the suppression of the rebellion, and the conformation and statesman that home rule for Canada was the indispensable condition of peace and prosperity there. I cannot feel the slightest doubt that the reign of King Edward VII. If it only lasts for a few years more, as we may well hope that it is likely to last, will be made memorable in history by the granting of home rule to Ireland. But in the meantime a great work has been accomplished by the passing of the Irish land bill, and the necessity of 1902 will make its mark in history by that great work at least."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

ACCESS TO THE LEVEE.

What Effect Will the Creation of the New Terminals Have on Present Approaches to the River Front?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The business interests, both merchant and manufacturing, of St. Louis are very much gratified at the apparent near approach of the settling of many difficult traffic problems for St. Louis, which has been brought about by the tenacious and untiring actions of the Post-Dispatch in the interests of a "Greater St. Louis."

It is recognized that the fight for a considerable time was carried on single-handed by the Post-Dispatch, until the manufacturing industries, through L. D. Kingsland, president of the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association, had the temerity to insist that the Post-Dispatch was right in demanding that all these questions be settled before any other franchise to the Terminal Association were granted.

The present condition of the matter seems to be that in consideration of the Terminal Association giving St. Louis a thorough bill of lading to and from St. Louis to the East and West Side terminals for all shipments to St. Louis, the Terminal Association is to be granted everything that it is asking from the city. It is perfectly proper that they should be given everything they ask, that will not be an injury to the city or her citizens, and level-headed business people recognize the fact that it is to the interest of the city to give St. Louis every possible advantage in the matter of receiving and shipping her manufactured merchandise; but there are some questions that should be brought to the attention of the Terminal Association, and definitely understood and answered before the matter of the occupation of the levee front and the levee is finally decided. The following questions are not propounded with any desire to delay action at what will be the result if the elevated track, under the loop ordinance, is built as contemplated:

1. If the loop line leaves the bridge and passes over the present elevated track to the ground purchased by the Terminal Association between Main and Commercial alley, and down this strip of ground to Market street, what height will it be above the level of Main street, and what height will it be over the present elevated track where it crosses it at Market street?

2. If the loop ordinance is passed, will the ground between the east side of Main street and the west side of the levee, and from the Eads bridge on the north to the south line of Market street, be graded down and converted into a freight yard?

3. If the ground above described is converted into a freight yard, will it not necessarily close up the surface approach to the levee of Vias, Locust, Olive, Pine, Chestnut and Market streets?

4. If the new elevated tracks, under the loop ordinance, of the Terminal Association, south of Market street continue to Valentine street, will not the additional pillars of the new elevated track with the pillars of the present elevated track make it impossible for loaded wagons desiring to return from or go to the above freight yards or to steamboats on the levee above Market street, to turn their heavy loads among the forest of pillars necessary to support the elevated tracks?

5. Will it be possible to continue Vias, Locust, Olive, Pine, Chestnut and Market streets from Main street on elevated roadway across the present elevated track, and under the proposed elevated tracks, with side roadways descending to the levee? In other words, will the space between the new elevated track and a train on the present elevated track be sufficient for such a structure?

6. If it is found impossible to extend the above streets over the tracks as outlined, and instead for loaded wagons to make their way through the labyrinth of pillars necessary for the two elevated tracks, will it not force the entire traffic of St. Louis for the river business, and the freight yards, which it is proposed to construct, to reach the levee on streets south of Valentine street?

7. If the new elevated tracks proposed by the loop ordinance reach the levee on Market street and leave it again on Valentine and the extensive freight yards are built, as outlined above, will it not utterly ruin the property between the south line of Market street and Valentine street and the east line of Main street and the levee; and if this results, what recourse will property owners of that portion of the levee front have for the damage done them by the construction of additional elevated tracks in front of them and the establishment of immense freight yards above them?

These questions it seems should be carefully considered by the City Council and the House of Delegates, and positive statements be obtained by them from the Terminal Association, before the bill as proposed is allowed to pass. It may be possible that this has all been carefully considered and arrangements made for the caring for the business that should reach the river by the streets that the loop ordinance apparently close up, and that ample protection against damages by these tracks is provided for in the case of the property owners between Market and Valentine streets and Main and the levee.

The certainty of the river again coming into use as a great artery of commerce becomes more and more apparent every day, and the fact that as long as it is used for such purposes gives St. Louis a decided advantage in the matter of freight rates should never be lost sight of.

A MISSOURIAN WHO MUST BE SHOWN.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A short time ago the newspapers stated that one of the railroads in the northwest had decided to burn 300 cars, because they were old style and not adapted to present requirements. I am told that on Sunday the Missouri Pacific burned such a large number of cars that had been wrecked out at Clifton Heights to get rid of the woodwork and save the iron. It is a common practice for the railroads to burn up piles of old cars. One of the good old maxims reads: "Waste not, want not." It would seem that this does not apply to wealthy railroads, but why is it that they do not use the iron from the burned cars? It is a waste of money to burn them up, and it is a waste of money to use the iron from them. It is a waste of money to burn them up, and it is a waste of money to use the iron from them.

THE MAN IN THE STREET

And This Is Fame!

The great financier embarked from his special car, and entered the Midway. He knew that he could scarcely reach a carriage unobserved for keen-eyed newspaper-men and police-men are eternally vigilant at the city's gates. But he was not prepared for the ovation he received. A whisper ran through the vast throng that surged in the Midway, and in a moment all eyes were turned in his direction. Then a mighty shout went up from the vast concourse. Cheers on cheer greeted the great magnate. Every hand was pointed towards him in wild gesticulations.

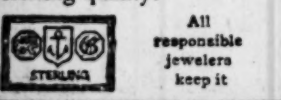

His bosom swelled with pride, but he smiled modestly and endeavored to peak. "Good friends," he said, "Good friends; you do me too much honor. I had not antiolated such a reception. I feel that I am unworthy of so much honor. I thank you from my inmost heart, but pray tell me why I am thus greeted? What have I done to deserve such an ovation? Have my modest charities—

Then a coarse, rude man, who was standing near enough to the great one to hear what he was saying, exclaimed: "Aw, say; cut it out! Ain't you got no sense? Does folks don't know nothin' about you. They're hollerin' cause you got on a straw caddy!"

HORRIBLE ECZEMA

Little Boy Three Months Old.
Face Covered with Sores.
Flesh was Raw.

CURED BY CUTICURA

"Our little boy was only three months old when he was taken with eczema that broke out in the most horrible state. His face was full of sores and some parts of the flesh were raw. We used Cuticura Soap, and one box of the Cuticura Ointment, and in one week this boy was as good as ever, and we can say the child has been O.K. ever since. We are willing to recommend the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. You can publish this statement, for it is nothing but the truth."

FIVE YEARS LATER

Mrs. Freese Writes, March 2, 1903.
That there is no sign of its return.

"There is not one sign of its return on our child. The disease was so bad that until we started to use the Cuticura Remedies we had friends call at the house to find out if it was so and we showed the boy to them. Not only has it done him the world of good but I myself had the eczema on my body and the scales would peel off. I used the Cuticura Remedies and have not got a speck of it on my body. So the only answer we can honestly give for the Cuticura Remedies is they are what you say they are. If any one would like to be convinced of the fact they can write me and I will only be too glad to answer the same."

Complete treatment for every humor, consisting of Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the skin, Cuticura Ointment, to heal the skin, and Cuticura Resolvent Pills, to cool and cleanse the blood, may now be had for one dollar. A single set is sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, and scaly humors, eczema, rashes and irritations, from infancy to age.

Politics.

O listen to the candidate!
O hear him rave and bellow!
A-telling what he's going to do
Unto the other fellow.
He's got the hoodlums on the run.
And eke the octopus;
He is a great reformer, and
A most amiable 'cuss!

His record he points to with pride
And cites us all to view
The many noble things he SAID
In Eighteen-ninety-two.
Alas! He doesn't mention now
The things he really DID.
That portion of his record he Does keep discreetly hid.

The octopus is up a tree,
For mercy he does beg,
For half a dozen candidates
Are putting at each leg.
The candidate has caught the Co.
(The candidate's a goose!)
He'll find that when election's past
He cannot turn it loose!

VILLAIN DROWNS IN REAL WATER

Post-Dispatch Newsboys, Guests of Crawford Theater, Cheer the "Two Little Vagrants."

Intense excitement prevailed among the Post-Dispatch newsboys at the corner of Fourteenth and Locust streets early last evening. It was the occasion of the arrival of the second division of Post-Dispatch newsboys, guests of the management of the Crawford Theater and their favorite paper to witness the production of "Two Little Vagrants" by a most capable company.

Three grand entertainments in as many weeks had served to work the boys up to a high pitch, and when they had gathered at the entrance to the theater, waiting to be admitted, many remarks were heard relating to the pleasant evenings the little fellows had spent after devoting all their time and energy to selling the Post-Dispatch.

"Combining business and pleasure" is the theory of the newsboys, and by so doing the boys are at all times in a happy state of mind. This is the aim of the Post-Dispatch: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

They arrived in small numbers at an early hour and lined up in a very orderly manner, being forced, as the time passed, by large numbers of hustlers that had just "turned in." At the time of opening the line was curving about all the corners in the neighborhood in a very short while not a boy could be seen. All had entered and were seated, ready for the performance. The overture finished the boys knew what was next, the show, and all was excitement.

The curtain went up and all was quiet. The boys listened attentively to all that was being said, and in this way managed to keep note on plot and at times posed on what was taking place on the stage. The abduction of Fan Fan (Miss Nevada Harrison) by Le Renard (Mr. Del La Barre) was a clever piece of work, and was applauded by the large audience. The work of Mr. Del La Barre throughout the entire play was effective.

Fan Fan as played by Miss Harrison is a charming part, one that appeals to old and young alike, and she and her the trials and tribulations of the Little Vagrant and his companion serves to teach a grand lesson, that no matter what your surroundings are, you can be honest and upright.

Claude (Miss Myra Etter) is one of the important characters in the play. Young in years, but taking a leading part, Miss Etter endeavored herself to the large and appreciative audience, and her appearance was the signal for much applause.

The locks on the Seine (real water) caught the boys, and when Fan Fan, in trying to save his father from the attack of Le Renard, drew the bridge, causing Le Renard to plunge into the water and drown, the boys were wildly joyful. They made the house echo with cheers.

Well staged throughout and given by a most excellent company, the play was a hit, not only to the newsboy audience, but to the rest of the house, which was completely filled.

To Mr. Crawford and Mr. Stuart of the theater the Post-Dispatch newsboys are very thankful for the good times given them.

MOTORMAN SAVES BABY FROM DEATH

Paul J. Fudwed, Hero, the Happiest Man in the World Because "She's Not Hurt Badly."

Paul J. Fudwed, a little, stocky, good-hearted, stout-hearted motorman, was voted a hero by the 500 men and women who saw the brave way in which he saved Baby Stella Schaffer from what seemed to be inevitable death, and who noted his grief during the moments between the little one's disappearance under the fender of his car and the time when he lifted her into his arms and started on a dead run with her toward a doctor's office.

Stella is 5 years old and the daughter of Rudolph Schaffer, who has a grocery store at 1111 Middle street. She had started across the street very leisurely when Fudwed's car of the Spring avenue division came bowling along, but under control.

Stella had ample time to cross either the track or to stop, but she did not heed the clang of the gong, which first sounded as a gentle warning, and then as a clamor of alarm. She almost stopped in the middle of the car tracks, with the car only a few feet from her.

Fudwed twisted the brake handle with greater speed and force than ever before he had done, dropped his fender and shut off the current. The wheels stopped but the car slid along the track, the tender struck the little girl and her form disappeared beneath it.

Fudwed's car had stopped within the next six feet, and before anyone else realized it, he was over the dashboard and kneeling before the front trunk, tugging desperately at the tiny bundle of humanity, wrapped in clothing that was soiled and torn, and dragging it from its resting place against the wheels.

Others hurried to Fudwed's side, but before they could lend a hand he had the unconscious little girl in his arms and had started with all his speed toward a doctor's office.

Stella's father, who had seen the accident, met him and took the child from him, but the motorman, still running and with tears streaming down his face, went ahead of the father to the doctor's door and had it open before Schaffer and the little patient arrived.

When the doctor said that Stella was not badly hurt, Fudwed was one of the happiest men that ever lived again for pure joy. Then he got back to his car and continued his evening run.

BABY HELEN, AFTER PERILOUS FALL, FORSAKES HER "MOUNTAIN" CLIMBING

She Beats All Her Little Playmates in Race to Top, Then Tumbles All the Way Down Again.

"I'm up first," rejoiced 3-year-old Helen Ferguson when she had succeeded in climbing to the top of the lumber pile at Tenth street and Clark avenue.

She had beaten them all—her brother, Harold, who is 6 years old, her favorite playmate, "Curly Head," who is as big as she is and a boy, too, and one of their chums, also a boy.

She stood on top of the lumber and looked down at the little fellows who were still climbing, knowing the intense happiness that comes to feminine hearts of any age when they have beaten anything masculine at the same game without the help of a handicap.

Her yellow hair, just long enough to turn in half rings, blew away from her head in the slight evening breeze and her light blue eyes sparkled with the exercise and the joy of victory.

Her Sunday dress had a few dirty marks on it from the lumber that she had rubbed against.

Her mother, back home at 113 South Tenth street, heard of her daughter's victory.

"Tomboy's won again," said a neighbor, and Mrs. Ferguson went out to look at the baby figure on top of the lumber pile.

Climbing lumber piles is a new game for Helen and her playmates. They never thought of it before they saw some big boys doing it. What big boys can do little Helen wants to do.

That's how it happened that she was "mountain climbing" with shingles for peaks and soot and dust for snow.

Helen's mother went back to her room after looking at her ambitious daughter. The boys reached the summit, too.

After a while a pale little girl came up the steps of her mamma's house. The straight, sparkling eyes had tears in them and the Sunday dress was more than marked with dust.

Little Helen had forgotten the happiness that had been hers when she out-climbed the boys.

She had fallen down the height that she had climbed with so much energy. For more than ten feet she had rolled down the lumber pile, striking pieces of boards and shingles until she was jarred and hurt.

She didn't complain to her mother. Without a word she went to do the errands that are here in the evening. She went after milk, but when she came home she could keep her sufferings still no longer.

She began to cry, and when her mother asked her what she had rubbed against the lumber pile and hurt her back, she said she was soiling on.

Her mother gave her home remedies, but they were of little use. The little climber seemed only to suffer more. At last, uncertain what to do, her mother carried her in her arms to the City Dispensary.

There Dr. Ernest examined her head and her body and said that her stomach had been hurt by the fall. He gave her medicine, but she suffered much in the night. Several times her mother thought that her little girl was about to die.

She was still a pale little girl Monday, with the ambition to climb lumber piles or other high ascents taken from the list of her desires.

No longer did she want to do the things big boys do. Neither did she want to outdo her boy playmates. She was glad to be still and wait for her strength to come back.

$3.00 LOUISVILLE AND RETURN.

Former Officer Declared a Robber.
DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 23.—Former Deputy United States Marshal W. A. Richards of Creston was today found guilty of the robbery of Mr. and Mrs. P. Sullivan at Hamilton, New Year's night.

The trial at Indianapolis concluded with the giving of the jury at 10:15 o'clock. Forty-five minutes later, on the first ballot, a verdict was reached. Said jury was composed of the robbery and captured, turned state's evidence against Richards. He testified that he and a crook named Redrup secured the $2000 that was extorted from the Sullivan and that Richards engineered the robbery and stood guard at the door while Redrup was taking the money.
